Prior to its official dissolution in 1923, the Communist Party of Yugoslavia held 57 seats out of a total of 380 in the Yugoslav Parliament. Five of the 57 seats were occupied by Slovene Communist representatives; at that time, Dr. Milan LEMEZ, a Ljubljana lawyer and former Social Democrat, was secretary of the Communist Party in Slovenia. In 1923 the Yugoslav Communist Party was dissolved by government decree about a month after the attempted assassination of Dr. Milorad DRASKOVIC, then Yugoslav Minister of the Interior. After the dissolution, activities ceased almost completely until 1933, when Miha MARINKO returned to Yugoslavia from the Soviet Union. Subsequently, in 1937 Lovro KUJAR, Edvard KARDELJ and Boris KIDRIC also returned from the Soviet Union.

On 18 April 1947

On 18 April 1947

[REDACTED] KUHAR was elected president of the party and Kardelj its secretary.

The Communist Party of Slovenia is composed of three main sections:

- (1) The Central Committee which as a plenary unit directs and controls the Communist Party of Slovenia.
- (2) The Polit-Bureau which is the executive body of the Communist Party of Slovenia.
- (3) The Secretariate which is the administrative body of the Communist Party of Slovenia.

The Slovene Communist Central Committee, with a representation of 60 members and 20 candidates, is headed by a Political Secretary (the Communist Central Committee of Yugoslavia is headed by a General Secretary) under whose authority the following committees function. (Each of the following is also represented by a committee secretary).

- a. Legislative Committee
b. Control Committee
